

What is the Transitional Reinsurance Plan Fee?

As a reminder, the Transitional Reinsurance Program (TRP) is a temporary program established to stabilize premiums in the individual health insurance market and is part of the implementation of the Affordable Care Act (ACA). The fee is in response to individuals with higher cost medical needs gaining insurance coverage in the state and federal marketplace. The TRP requires any health plan providing major medical coverage to contribute a fee for each covered life (employees and dependents) that the health plan covers. Standalone dental and vision plans, flexible spending accounts, health reimbursement arrangements, health savings accounts and other limited plans are not required to make a TRP fee payment. TRP fees will apply from 2014 to 2016.

Who Pays the TRP fee?

The fee will be paid by the insurer and is included in premium for fully-insured plans. Self-funded plan sponsors (generally, the employer) will be required to report covered lives and make a fee payment on behalf of the plan. Self-funded plan sponsors may also request that their Third Party Administrator or Administrative Services Only Contractor pay the fee at their direction.

It is important to note that self-funded self-administered plans (those that do not use an administrator and handle core administrative functions in-house) will only owe the fee in 2014 and are exempt from payments in 2015 and 2016.

What are Self-funded Plan Sponsors required to do?

Self-funded employers are required to do two things: submit an annual enrollment report of the covered lives in their major medical plan and pay the fee. The 2014 fee is $63 per covered life. Fees for covered lives will decrease each year. In 2015, the estimated fee is $44 per covered life and in 2016 the fee is estimated at $27 per covered life. Both the annual enrollment report and the actual fee submission will be made through www.pay.gov. Following is additional information on the process and timing.

1. Annual enrollment report:
 - a. By November 15, 2014, the annual enrollment report of covered lives must be submitted using one of four methods (actual count, snapshot count, snapshot factor, or 5500 method – click here to see the methods in our original TRP communication).
 - b. The reporting form is labeled “ACA Transitional Reinsurance Program Annual Enrollment Contributions Submission” on the pay.gov website. The form will be available to begin submission on October 24, 2014.
 - c. Future submissions will be due on November 15, 2015, and November 15, 2016.

2. Fee submission: Two methods of payment are acceptable. Employers may either make a lump sum payment or pay the fee in two installments. The fee is paid electronically at www.pay.gov.
 - a. The lump sum payment is due January 15, 2015 ($63 per covered life) or;
 - b. Payments made in two installments may be made as follows:
 - i. First and largest installment ($52.50 per covered life) due January 15, 2015; AND
 - ii. The smaller installment of ($10.50 per covered life) due on November 15, 2015.

How HORAN Can Help

HORAN can assist employers by helping gather the necessary information to calculate covered lives for the annual enrollment report. For most employers, the easiest count to calculate or provide is either the 5500 count from annual Form 5500 filings of ERISA plans or the snapshot count method. At your request, we will contact your administrator for information for the snapshot count calculation or provide the calculation from your annual Form 5500 filing if applicable.
